

CDP RECOGNIZES BREMBO'S COMMITMENT TO ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY

Based on data from CDP's 2024 questionnaires, Brembo continues to be a leading company in addressing climate change and water security

Bergamo (Italy), February 7, 2025 – Brembo has been recognized by the global non-profit CDP for its commitment to environmental sustainability with an A- rating in both the climate change and water security categories for 2024. This achievement confirms the company efforts to address some of the world's most critical environmental challenges.

"We are proud of the CDP rating achieved", said Andrea Rocco, Brembo's Chief Sustainability & Risk Officer. "Every year, CDP raises the bar with more stringent requirements, and we continue to meet these higher standards thanks to our commitment to environmental sustainability".

Brembo will present the 2024 sustainability activities and results in its Annual Report, which will be released on March 18, 2025.

CDP, formerly known as the Carbon Disclosure Project, is a global non-profit that runs the world's environmental disclosure system for investors, companies, cities, states and regions. CDP's annual analysis has become a global benchmark for transparency and environmental action, combining best-practice reporting standards and frameworks. In 2024, CDP assigned scores ranging from the lowest "D-" to the highest "A" to the companies involved based on information submitted through its climate change, deforestation and water security questionnaires.
